Heavy Snow in Some Areas Blocks Roads And Closes Schools; Mercury Takes Drop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wintry storm belted parts of the Midwest Monday, snarling highway traffic and closing some schools.

The storm spread a heavy snow cover from northern Oklahoma into Wisconsin and accumulations up to a foot deep were forecast.

The Midwest storm came on the heels of a rash of out-of-season tornadoes Sunday which killed at least five persons in Alabama and Mississippi. The Weather Bureau warned more tornadoes may develop in those states Monday.

Russell in north central Kansas had 8 inches of snow on the ground; Hill City, Kan., 7; LaCrosse, Wis., 5; Council Bluffs, Iowa, 9, and Dumont, Wis., 9. Parts of Nebraska reported 10 inches.

Scores of schools were closed in Iowa because school buses couldn't move over the snow covered roads. Highway travel was slowed in southwest Iowa and jackknifed trucks blocked some highways.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Kansas City said snow was falling through eastern Nebraska, western and northern Iowa, Kansas and into northern Oklahoma and that strong northerly winds would cause considerable blowing and drifting.

A heavy glaze warning was issued for motorists in parts of Iowa.

The mercury nosedived to 12 degrees below zero in parts of Wyoming.

Heavy rains sprayed eastern Texas, western Tennessee and Kentucky, and southeastern Missouri. Dyersburg, Tenn., had three inches of rain in six hours.

Lists Damage Of Typhoon At $5 Million

GUAM — Estimates of damage from Typhoon Lola to civilian and military installations on Guam reached more than five million dollars today.

Gov. Richard Barrett Lowe estimated civilian damages alone, from the storm that battered the island Friday night, at nearly two million dollars.

The Air Force placed its loss, not counting supplies and equipment 2 1/2 million, the Navy reported half a million in damages.

Restoration work continued throughout the island, although some southern areas were still without power and telephone service.

Some 25 native families were left homeless by the rampaging storm.

The typhoon's center winds slowed from 200 to 150 miles an hour as Lola moved northwestward at seven to nine miles an hour.

The eye of the storm at mid-afternoon was about 1,000 miles southeast of Taipei. The island would be struck in about five days if the typhoon continues on its present course and at the present speed.

Guam was raked Friday night and property damage was estimated at more than a million dollars. There were no casualties. The U.S. Navy's biggest loss was half a million dollars worth of electronics equipment.

Large Crowd Honors Composer On 84th Birthday

NEW YORK — A throng of admirers joined last night in singing happy birthday to William C. Handy, the frail, blind composer of "The St. Louis Blues."

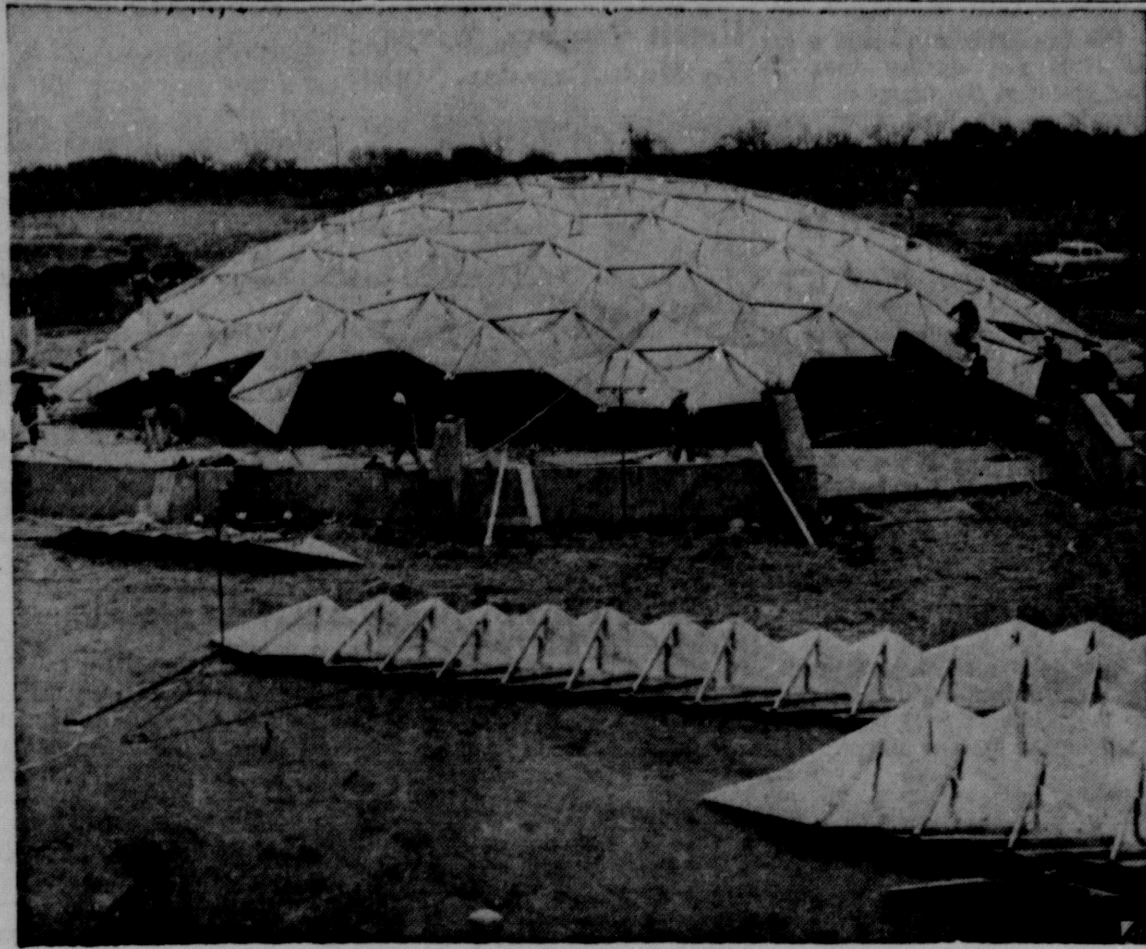

For the 84-year-old Negro, it was a long way from St. Louis where, he recalled, "I was a tramp."

About 800 persons gathered in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and paid $50 a plate—proceeds to the W. C. Handy Foundation for the Blind—in a tribute sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

As Handy entered the ballroom in a wheelchair, a 30-piece Paul Whiteman orchestra saluted him with "Alabama Bound." Handy was born in Florence, Ala.

President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and New York's Gov. Averell Harriman sent telegrams of congratulations.

Among 36 persons on the dais with Handy and his wife were Ralph Bunche, United Nations official; Oscar Hammerstein II; and singer Morton Downey.

BALLOONING FACTORY—Workmen are shown in Abilene, Kan., as they construct a dome-shaped building of aluminum, using balloons beneath the aluminum section to hoist them into place for riveting on supports seen in foreground. The building which was to be constructed within 24 working hours, was delayed earlier by trouble with riveting machinery, but at this stage was about 40 per cent complete. The balloons, undiscernable beneath the partially completed dome, stand 54 feet when fully inflated. The building will house the FI-Fe Conveyor Co., a factory to manufacture conveyor equipment. (AP Wirephoto)

Adlai Stevenson Arrives to Talk With Dulles About Plan for NATO

WASHINGTON — Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson arrived at the State Department today to confer with Secretary of State Dulles on President Eisenhower's plans for breathing new life into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"I am here to make comments and be helpful, to consult and discuss," said Stevenson who was defeated for the presidency in 1952 and 1956 by Eisenhower.

Speaking to newsmen as he arrived in a drizzle, the former Illinois governor told newsmen he could add little to what has already been said about his mission.

He has agreed to act as a consultant, while declining an offer to head a group formulating policy.

Reporters asked him how he could make comments on policy before it was made final without, in effect, helping draft it.

"I won't go into that," he laughed. But he said he would "be as helpful as I can" in arguing for the policies "to the extent that I agree with them."

Stevenson was about 10 minutes early for his appointment with Dulles.

Stevenson has been asked to meet later with President Eisenhower, who now is vacationing in Augusta, Ga.

Arriving here from New York, Stevenson issued a statement outlining some of his own views including the need for "highly mobile forces" to combat brush fires, development of joint policies, and aid to underdeveloped countries.

"I am here to help if I can to bring about a closer military and political association through NATO (the North Atlantic Treaty Organization)," he said.

He agreed to this attempt at bipartisanship, he said, because of "the gravity of our situation in the world."

Guardedly, in response to Dulles' initial overtures last month, he refused to head up a State Department task force which would write the policy for Eisenhower's personal attendance at a NATO summit meeting next month. But he agreed to "review and discuss" administration proposals and to support them "when we were in agreement."

In Augusta, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower wrote Stevenson last week expressing regret he would not be in Washington during Stevenson's visit today.

Eisenhower also said he intends to confer with Stevenson before leaving for the NATO meeting in Paris, Hagerty said, but added no date for such a meeting has been fixed.

"I haven't the remotest idea," he replied. To a similar question, Hagerty said he has not heard such a Stevenson trip discussed in the government.

Supports Research Program

The Pettis County Tuberculosis Association have the Christmas seals in the mail for the 1957 sale.

Each year the Christmas seals have a new design chosen in a nation wide competition, according to Herbert Seifert, president of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society, and the 1957 twin seals were designed by G. Clinton Bradley, a free lance artist of Philadelphia and Media, Pa. The theme is "A child's version of Christmas" and show Santa Claus and a little girl reflected in bright Christmas balls hung on evergreen boughs. Bradley designed the Christmas seals to express the true spirit of the holiday which centers on home and family, the home and family we help protect when we buy Christmas seals.

The Tuberculosis Association's program of medical research, case finding, rehabilitation and health education is supported by people of Pettis County, who join with people all over the country at this time of year in contributing by buying the gay little seals.

Seifert is asking that each Pettis County citizen become a Christmas seal Santa Claus by buying and using these little seals to fight tuberculosis. The Christmas seal child and all other children will be able to grow up in a world free of this disease that now strikes 100,000 Americans each year.

Charles Hanley, treasurer of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society will receive the contributions from the Christmas seals at the Third National Bank.

The Future Nurses Club, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Stewart, of the Pettis County Nurses Society, prepared 9,500 seals for mailing last week, with Mrs. Betty Murrell, R. N., school nurse and a member of the Society, and Mrs. John Welch, executive secretary in his formal statement. Stevenson made an apparent reference to some suggestions Dulles is considering, saying that "genuine partnership means more than pooling our military and scientific resources. We must also work out joint policies in areas of common interest and common danger before crises like Suez arise."

Slusher outlined that picture in a speech prepared for the 43rd annual meeting of the Farm Bureau.

"We are no longer living in an agricultural economy," he said. "We are in an industrial economy. Agriculture in self defense will have to industrialize."

"When the adjustment period is over, whether we like it or not, agriculture will be industrialized or communized."

Slusher said the change would preserve the family farm. "But that farm will be a large enough operation so that the family can work and live satisfactorily—a farm large enough to require real management, drawing upon and utilizing all the research work of our land grant colleges as well as that of private industry."

Slusher praised Democratic Gov. James T. Blair for speaking out against the encroachment of federal government on the states.

"When more of our politicians begin to speak as statesmen," he said, "when more of our political leaders begin to lead rather than follow the trends of political expediency, will be assured of saving this great experiment in this democratic government of ours for posterity."

In place of present farm price support programs, Slusher recommended what he called a "federal reserve crop acreage program" to bring production in line with demand.

Under this plan, the secretary of agriculture would rent a percentage of the land on each farm, contracting individually with each farmer.

"Such a program would leave the farmer free," Slusher said. "He would determine the crops he would raise. He would adjust according to the market demand."

Claims Taxpayer Has Right to Know Status Of Scientific Advance

WASHINGTON — Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) said today he hopes new hearings by his House Government Information Subcommittee "will point the way to a lightening of the blanket of secrecy stifling scientific advance."

Moss's statement was prepared for the opening of two days of public hearings on Defense Department policies and practices on letting the public know about what's going on in the military establishment.

Among those to testify today was Trevor Gardner, the former assistant secretary of the Air Force who resigned his post last year in protest against Pentagon policies on research and development.

Farm Leader Sees Industry Farming Basis

Presents Picture At Annual Meeting In Jefferson City

JEFFERSON CITY — The president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation predicted today changes in agriculture will lead to fewer farms but bigger individual units operating on an industrialized basis.

H. E. Slusher outlined that picture in a speech prepared for the 43rd annual meeting of the Farm Bureau.

"We are no longer living in an agricultural economy," he said. "We are in an industrial economy. Agriculture in self defense will have to industrialize."

Unruffled By Attacks

Benson Has No Plans To Leave US Cabinet

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Benson, back from a survey trip around the world, says he has no plans to leave the cabinet.

Returning here Saturday, Benson appeared unruffled by attacks on the administration's farm program, and about reports that some Midwest Republicans want his resignation.

He told newsmen in a planeside interview that he regards the farm program as economically sound. And he challenged anyone to offer a better program, saying he would be glad to consider it.

As for the reports he is about to step out of the post he has held for nearly five years, Benson said:

"I have no plans to leave the cabinet. I've been busy with a program to expand exports of American farm products and we hope we have been effective salesmen."

The stated purpose of his 24-day global journey, which took him to 12 nations, was to seek ways to expand U. S. commercial farm exports and to observe surplus disposal operations.

In a formal statement after he left his plane, Benson said he would recommend to President Eisenhower a year's extension of the law under which government-held surplus farm commodities may be sold, bartered or given away abroad. He also said he would ask at least another billion dollars in authority to do this.

Criticism was leveled at Benson for taking members of his family on his trip. Traveling with the secretary were Mrs. Benson and two of his daughters—Beverly, 20, and Bonnie, 17. Several Agriculture Department trade experts also were in the party.

One of the critics was Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler who told an audience in Parsons, Kan., that "it is not acceptable morality in public service when the taxpayer has to pick up the check" for the travels of an official's family. He referred specifically to Benson. When he left Oct. 22, Benson's office said he would pay the cost of food and hotels for his daughters, but that he would not pay for their transportation because there would be no extra cost in their using the military plane assigned to carry him on his mission.

However, after Benson returned Saturday, his office announced he is reimbursing the government for the cost of transporting his two daughters. Benson's office said this was in line with arrangements made before his trip began.

Pineau reiterated the arms delivery has damaged the solidarity of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and given the French Communist party its greatest "victory" since World War II.

He said his government wants to confer with the Tunisian government on settlement of all problems but that the arms delivery has created a bad atmosphere for such purpose.

Pineau said the only benefit gained by the West from the arms shipment was delivery of supplies a few hours or days before Egypt made similar deliveries to its North African neighbor.

If British-American arms should fall into the hands of Algerian rebels opposing French forces, Pineau added, public opinion in France would react very strongly.

The troubled state of current French opinion, he said, is very bad preparation for the NATO meeting to be held in Paris next month.

Pineau is scheduled to see Dulles tomorrow.

Pineau said he would seek a "guarantee to obtain limitations of arms" sent to Tunisia, and an agreement to prevent such arms falling into the hands of Algerian rebels.

The White House announced Eisenhower will make a major political speech in Chicago Jan. 20. The address will kick off the Republican drive to capture control of Congress from the Democrats in the 1958 elections.

It will be the fifth anniversary of Eisenhower's first-term inauguration. His speech will be carried by private television circuit to party fund-raising dinners throughout the country.

Humphrey and his wife went to church services with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower yesterday morning. Then the President and the former Cabinet officer went back to the club, slipped into kelly green jackets denoting club membership, and munched crackers from the new barrel.

Plans Called For 3 Test Spheres First

WASHINGTON — The Navy announced today that if it is successful in launching a small six-inch satellite next month it will then try to launch a fully instrumented 20-inch satellite ahead of the original March target date.

Original plans called for launching three "test vehicles" containing six-inch, 3.4 pound satellite spheres. The first would be sent up some time during December.

But a spokesman said that if the Navy was successful in launching the small sphere into an orbit on the first test the other two preliminary tests might be foregone and an attempt made to put a 20-inch sphere into orbit.

The original plan as announced by President Eisenhower some weeks ago was that the month of March was the objective for putting the larger sphere into orbit.

"If we are successful (with the first small sphere) it would probably mean launching a big 20-inch one in January," a spokesman for the Navy's project Vanguard said.

WASHINGTON — A Soviet marshal says Russia has intercontinental missiles that would be decisive in any future war. But one American scientist says Russia's satellite launchings provided only partial evidence that Russia has such weapons.

Meanwhile, the Martin Co. said in Baltimore it is establishing a new division to speed arrangements for launching an American satellite under the Navy-directed Project Vanguard. The Martin Co. is prime contractor for the Vanguard satellite's three-stage launching rocket.

In the political realm, the Democratic Advisory Council declared, "The all-out effort of the Soviets to establish themselves as masters of the space around us must be met by all-out efforts of our own."

The Russian missile boast was made by Artillery Marshal S. Barentsev yesterday in an article in the Communist newspaper Pravda. Barentsev's article followed the line taken by other Russian military leaders in celebrating Soviet Artillery Day.

Barentsev said long-range missiles give the Soviet Union the ability to smash any aggressor anywhere and under any conditions.

Another artilleryman, Marshal S. S. Varetsov, said Russia has ready a vast array of modern weapons, "including atomic, thermonuclear (hydrogen) and long-range rockets capable of destroying enemy targets at distances unimaginable at the end of World War II."

And Mikhail N. Chistyakov, still another artillery marshal, claimed that Soviet artillery is maintaining "its superiority over those who openly call themselves our enemy."

Starts Spending Query at Time Of High Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-Economic subcommittee set out today to study federal spending programs at a time of upward pressure on defense expenditures.

Nearly 100 of the nation's leading economists were standing by to discuss their views in two weeks of hearings scheduled by a fiscal policy subcommittee headed by Rep. Mills (D-Ark).

Their ideas already have been published by the subcommittee in a 1,000-page compendium as a preliminary to public panel discussions.

No over-all conclusion was apparent in their formal views. But all were agreed that the explosive growth in government expenditures since 1933 has become a major factor in the course of the nation's economy.

Any chance of tax reduction will be closely tied to the level of federal spending at the coming session, and many Congress members feel the chance for a general tax cut is slight.

With the administration calling for possibly a billion-dollar increase next year over the current defense budget of around 38 billion dollars, there has been marked revision of previous expectations for a tax-cut bill next year.

The Mills subcommittee, after extensive hearings last June, came out strongly against tax cuts until federal spending is curtailed and new spending programs eliminated.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Stevenson Cool Toward Dulles Meeting

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — A crap game at an Air Force Officers Club at Middletown, Pa., might have created a serious racial incident the other day, but good sense on the part of two officers patched things up.

The incident occurred when Maj. Gen. George Acheson, Commander of Olmstead Air Force Base, slugged a Negro officer, Capt. John W. Read.

Officers on active duty had gathered for what they called a "dining in" affair, which consisted of dinner, drinking, and recreation. The recreation consisted chiefly of a dice game.

Captain Read kept stopping the dice game as the dice were rolled, he kept calling, "Stop the game." This, under the rules, he had a right to do three times on each point, as long as the dice were actually in motion and had not come to a stop.

General Acheson, no relation to the former secretary of state, seemed to think that Read was doing this too often and also calling out after the dice had come to a stop so that he could see whether they favored him. He was also putting his hand over the dice. Acheson told Captain Read to quit obstructing the game.

The Negro Captain made some remark that his money was in the game, too.

Finally the commanding officer walked round the table and told Captain Read to his face: "Now look, I have told you two or three times not to do that. You have been covering the dice with your hands and that's cheating. If I have to tell you once more . . ."

Captain Read muttered under his breath, "Bull---, General."

Without further ceremony, the General slugged the Captain.

Captain Read, when queried, refused to admit that the incident took place. He said General Acheson has a good record and he would say nothing to hurt his career.

General Acheson was asked: "We understand there was a dining-in affair at Olmstead on November 6."

"Yep," he replied.
"And that it consisted of dinner, drinking, and recreation in the form of a dice game."

"Yep," was the General's frank reply.

"And we learned that you hit and knocked down Capt. John W. Read."

"No, I bounced one off his chin."

The General then described the incident quite frankly, admitted both had been drinking but were not drunk, explained that it was the remark, "Bull---, General," which got him sore. He said that Read had come around the next day and apologized. The General told him to forget about it. Acheson described Read as a "fine officer."

Both officers have good records. Of course, craps and liquor can sometimes muck up a record, but it's a tribute to relations in the Air Force that an incident of this kind could take place without arousing racial passions.

Unhappy Adlai

Nobody around Adlai Stevenson, including himself, is very happy about his conference with John Foster Dulles today, and some of his friends are urging him not to get hooked up with what they describe as the "floundering" Eisenhower Administration.

They point out that at the same time Dulles invited Stevenson to Washington, the Republican National Committee is mailing out reams of propaganda accusing the Democrats of starting two world wars and warning that Democrats are not qualified to lead the nation with two Russian Sputniks in the skies. Simultaneously, Meade Alcorn, GOP National Chairman, has been working up the alibi that the guided missile lag is because the Democrats cut missile research from 1942-47.

Stevenson's friends also point out that when Roosevelt wanted Republican cooperation prior to Pearl Harbor, he personally invited Frank Knox, former GOP candidate for vice president, to be Secretary of the Navy, and Henry L. Stimson, former Secretary of State under Hoover and Secretary of War under Taft, to be his secretary of war. Their responsibilities were great and duties were definite, not nebulous as that of an adviser to the secretary of state.

When Adlai first met with Dulles on October 25, Dulles had written out a press release announcing that Stevenson would become an adviser. He was all set to consider the whole business finished.

Stevenson, however, pointed out two things: 1. If he did not agree with the Dulles program for NATO he would do the administration a disservice by being in the position where he would have to express that disagreement; or, 2, if he disagreed and then kept quiet he would do himself a disservice. That was why he wanted to study the administration's NATO plan in advance.

So he told Dulles to prepare the administration's position for the Paris meeting and that he, Stevenson, would then tell him whether he could go along with it. In effect he said: "I can't tell you what your policy should be, but I'll be glad to tell you if I think you're wrong."

Note — One thing that works against Democratic cooperation is the fact that, though Roosevelt invited Wendell Willkie to the White House and Truman invited Herbert Hoover, Eisenhower has not yet invited either Stevenson or Truman for a personal talk. In the last few days, Eisenhower took time to talk with John Schapiro, owner of the Laurel Race Track, took time out to dedicate the Atomic Energy Building, address the FBI School, and play several rounds of golf, but would not take time to confer with Stevenson or Truman though both were in or near Washington.

Family Health Data

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the President's heart specialist, has made two noteworthy recommendations in regard to health.

For the sake of detecting any possible hereditary diseases, Dr. White suggested that families should keep their own health records in a loose leaf notebook with a page or two for each member of the family. This should include the date of birth, the growth chart, illnesses, operations, accidents, date and marriage of children, each of which should later on have an individual sheet and the date and cause of death.

The task of keeping such records would probably fall upon the mother, but she would find them as helpful as the doctor when she tried to recall the time and kind of illnesses in the family. Many insurance companies are requesting this kind of information and are supplying the notebooks.

Dr. White's second recommendation was the training of geneticists for future research and practical availability to give advice to doctors and people at large. He says that while we are carrying out researches in cancer, heart disease, mental health and other ailments by knowing more about family health histories, the likely candidates of these diseases might be discovered early and the disease might be prevented, treated or cured.

A new mother is usually anxious to keep a record of everything that happens to her first baby. She is usually too busy with the second and third, but it would be time well spent if a brief notation was made in the little notebook or card file of every member of the family. It would certainly help the doctor, the school and the military.

Adams In Protocol

Sherman Adams, handsome, genial and capable assistant to the President didn't have to climb the social ladder in Washington, he just skipped a few rungs. In the publication of the annual social list in the capital city, Mr. Adams was elevated above the 48 governors and 96 senators and landed just below the cabinet.

What does it mean to Mr. Adams? Not too much probably except that at social functions, especially dinners, he will be seated "nearer the salt."

While there is no such thing as royalty in this country, the Green Book of Protocol does list a few mums as far as who outranks whom. The President always comes first, the Vice President second, the Chief Justice third, and then the former presidents with former President Hoover outranking former President Harry S. Truman on the basis of chronological order of their administrations.

Mr. Adams, former governor of New Hampshire, leaped over not only the governors and senators but also two cabinet ranks, the Director of Defense Mobilization and the Director of the Budget. Mr. Adams was placed just below the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, the newest cabinet position.

Mr. Adams will sit where he is assigned, but being the gentleman that he is, he would be "at home" in any seat and pleasant and interesting as a dinner partner.

Weather Prediction

The United States Weather Bureau prides itself on its long-range forecasts. There are the five-day predictions, the monthly forecasts, and so on. But the bureau at Grand Rapids, Mich., got a request the other day that strained the agency's capacities.

A small boy telephoned to ask what the weather will be like this Christmas. That stopped the Grand Rapids forecasters. But the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times, taking note, came up with a prediction it thought should suit the lad perfectly. Forecast the Standard-Times:

"Sunny (dispositions) and warm (hearts) in the morning, with intermittent precipitation (tears of joy) and claps of thunder (laughter). Drifting clouds (for deliciously happy children to walk on) will patch the sky in the afternoon. The evening will be calm (even little boys get tired) and clear (clear memories, that is, of the most wonderful day of the year)."

WASHINGTON — We're getting self-conscious.

We've been busting our buttons — talking and performing — to show how strong we are ever since Russia fired the Sputniks.

But we didn't have the right muscles at the right time. The Russians won a propaganda victory.

Allies and neutrals were left with visions of Russian missiles and hydrogen warheads dropping in their flowerpots.

Something had to be done to reassure friends, warn foes. A whole batch of statements and performances followed, none as spectacular as Sputnik.

Eisenhower Still Same Man As Before Sputnik Launching

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Of Our Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON—Since Sputnik II it has become quite fashionable, especially in certain Republican circles, to jump on Ike.

For this there is no excuse. Ike is the same man he was. He still has vital charm. And he has played it straight.

January, 1948, Ike wrote Leonard Finner of the Manchester (N.H.) Evening Leader: "... nothing in the international or domestic situation, qualifies for the most important office in the world a man whose adult years have been spent in the military forces. At least, this is true in my case."

That was Ike's own estimate. It was rejected by the Republican party, and a huge majority of the American people. Now, six years later, some politicians are tempted to accept the old appraisal. But none can say Ike didn't put it on the line.

(To the Democrats, oddly enough, all this is incidental. Besides, they figure he'll be out of the show, and they're preparing to open up on Vice President Nixon with their heaviest artillery.)

Ike was similarly honest about

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
Shoe strings always seem to break when one is in a hurry. When we make haste to tie our shoes, we tug especially hard to tighten the laces. It is the extra, hasty pull which tears the threads and severs the strings already weakened by normal wear.

When the mind is under stress and strain, we often find that a flare of temper or a loss of balance permits people to do things which break their normal ways of living. Some folk curse. Others become physically violent. Still others attack anyone within easy reach. All of these reactions result from a lack of self-control.

We lack this needed sublimation when we are not dedicated to a purpose of living higher than our own. God transforms behavior from our selfish way to His way when we seek His help.

his health in 1956. He said, in effect, though he could not carry the burdens of a healthy president, he could emphatically fulfill all important functions of his august office. In short, he admitted he would be a part time president, but only to the extent of avoiding inconsequential ceremonial tasks.

This honest admission may have been misinterpreted by voters, though there is no real reason to suppose it was. More important, however, was its impact on the White House staff.

There is no doubt that Ike's subordinates felt impelled to protect him from unnecessary work and social contacts. From time to time, it has seemed clear that Ike's subordinates were overprotective.

During the last session, for example, the school bill was beaten in the House by a narrow margin. Ike was asked if he had known that the Democratic leadership was prepared to accept his version of the bill. (Direct intervention by the White House would have swung enough votes to pass the measure.) In surprised tones Ike said no, he had not known that.

Whether or not the Democratic leadership really was prepared to accept the Administration bill is not the point. The point is that Ike could not have expressed surprise if he had been in touch with the congressional situation. His White House aides were and it is patent that they did not keep him abreast of developments.

The plain implication of Ike's recent speech on missiles is that overprotective aides kept vital information from him. One reason for establishing the new office of Special Assistant for Science and Technology, is that this will enable Ike himself to act whenever it appears there is unnecessary delay in development.

The situation is becoming sticky. Ike is the same man he was. He will be President until 1960. And instead of jumping on him, maybe it would be better to rally round and help him achieve the success we all want.

Guest Editorial

COLUMBIA MISSOURIAN: The Joplin Plan. Cecil Floyd, Joplin's assistant school superintendent, has come up with some new ideas in education, now known as the Joplin Plan.

This Joplin Plan is receiving national attention. And rightly so, because it is a realistic approach to some educational shortcomings. The plan was formed to create new and better reading habits and to make learning interesting.

Today the visitor in a Joplin reading class may find a 9-year-old girl sitting next to a 13-year-old boy, both reading the same book. Students are advanced according to ability and not according to age. Therefore, superior students don't lose interest by having to read material below their level, and less able students don't lose interest by being lost and befuddled with too-hard material.

This plan is further developed through the grading system. Old style grade cards and letter marks have been dropped. Reading students carry home a 10-page reading progress report which has space for teacher remarks on word skills, oral reading, silent reading and suggestions.

This is an important development. In such a subject as reading, the letter grade is admittedly arbitrary and subject to human fallacy.

Giving practical suggestions, insights and comments on each individual student would not simply throw every student into some sort of stilted classification. It would instead give the parents an accurate picture of exactly what the student can do and what he needs help with.

Most important, it would be a report to help the student, not to classify him.

Also at Joplin, students are given from 12 to 16 varied achievement tests during their first six years of school. Elaborate records plus teacher notations are kept. As a student advances, his new teachers have a good description of his abilities.

Two questions arise concerning this plan:

1. How has the program at Joplin worked?

Many students have read from 100 to 200 books. One 10-year-old girl read 442 books in nine months. They have become happy, enthusiastic readers, advancing as rapidly as they can. They read science fiction and want telescopes for Christmas. They enjoy learning.

2. Won't this program necessitate better teacher training and demand more from our schools? Yes. But what are our schools for anyway?

Cattle Outlook Improved

Expect Prices Will Continue to Rise During Last of Year; Cattle Number Drops

By J. W. REYNOLDS
MU Extension Marketing Specialist

The outlook for cattle prices is much more favorable than it has been in recent years. In fact, farmers can expect about four years of favorable cattle prices ahead.

Cattle prices are looked to be higher in 1958 than this year. It now appears that prices will edge up some during the last two months of this year and it is a good possibility that prices will continue to pick up some into spring of 1958. There are some estimates of fed cattle prices being $1.50 to $2 per hundredweight higher in the second quarter of 1958 than in 1957. This would make choice slaughter cattle prices at the terminal markets in the neighborhood of $24 to $26 per hundred during April, May and June next year. Then some leveling off in prices might be expected.

Replacement cattle prices will remain high. The low point in the stocker market is probably past. The higher prices of stocker and feeder cattle this fall just about offsets the lower feed prices in prospect.

In speaking of feeds, pastures and ranges are much improved over a year ago. The hay crop is at an all-time high, so is barley and sorghum grain harvested. And there is another large corn crop. Wintering programs set up to sell cattle in the spring without grazing or feeding will probably run into a lot of competition.

A new stage in the current "cattle cycle" has been reached. Cattle numbers are declining. In the seven years prior to 1956, cattle numbers were increased 36 per cent or 20 million head. All of the increases was in beef cattle. Numbers were decreased last year 1.6 million, influenced by drought and lower prices.

There has been more cattle marketed and slaughtered in the past three or four years than at any time in history, and by a wide margin. Slaughter so far in 1957 has stayed close to a year ago. There have been fewer steers but more cows and heifers slaughtered than a year ago. Total cattle slaughter this year is expected to be down about two per cent from last year.

It is expected that the slaughter of cows and heifers will decline some in 1958. Calf slaughter also will probably be reduced next year. There will be enough cattle on feed to market fairly large supplies of fed cattle. All this means that total slaughter in 1958 will be less than in 1957. And the low point in the slaughter cycle may not come until about 1960. The chances are good that the reduction in slaughter numbers will be smaller and the downswing of this current cycle shorter than has been the case several times in the past. The highest mountain in Canada is Mount Logan in the Yukon, 19,850 feet high.

Dates Ahead

Thursday, Dec. 5 — Income tax and Social Security meeting, 7:30 p.m. at Assembly Room in courthouse.

Friday, Dec. 6 — Reorganization meeting of Agricultural Extension Council at 1:30 p.m.

Tax and Social Security Meeting

Plans have been made for an open meeting on income tax and Social Security for farmers. The meeting will be in the assembly room of courthouse at 7:30 on Thursday night, Dec. 5.

Folks assisting with the meeting will be C. R. Meeker, extension economist from the University and Tom Nash, district supervisor on Social Security who is stationed at Sedalia.

Informational Meeting

For the past several years a district informational meeting for folks who assist farmers with income tax and Social Security returns has been held at Sedalia. This meeting has become increasingly popular with attendance going from 30 the first year to 60 the second and 90 in 1956.

The group has actually outgrown a local restaurant dining room and plans have been made to hold it this year at the Epworth Methodist Church. There is quite a cross section of the area in the addresses seen on the registration book. They include Marshall, Warsaw, California, Odessa, Windsor and points between.

A printed program will be available a little later.

Farm and City Week

Many areas are planning to celebrate Farm-City Week from Nov. 22 to 28. I expect that sooner or later it will catch on at Sedalia. It is a rural-urban venture with Farm Bureau as one of the leaders on the rural side and a civic group, Kiwanis International on the urban side.

Actually Sedalia and the country side appear to be getting a pretty good job done on rural-urban relations. An example is the recent recognition dinner given by the Chamber of Commerce to the 450 4-H club members who completed all their club projects in 1957.

The Chamber is also planning to serve lunch to the annual soils and crops conference on Feb. 1. The dairy night last June was a cooperative affair with rural women furnishing 249 cakes. It ended with 1500 rural and urban people eating ice cream and cake together for ten cents a plate.

Reasons for Accepting Second Vice-Presidency

I have wondered some times whether I should have accepted the position of second vice-president of the Chamber for the next year. It does represent a lot of work and some of my other work will suffer. On the other hand it will provide the opportunity for even better relations between town and country. Actually two of the Chamber divisions deal directly with farming. One is agriculture and the other is farm marketing. Several others are indirectly related as the industrial division will bring in more industries which will mean more work for rural folks.

Another division entitled wholesalers and manufacturers has been working on a broiler project. The thought is sort of mixed here. It seems entirely alright to work on a project that will bring business to two large dressing plants here in town and continued employment to their payroll. On the other hand competition in the broiler industry is stiff, the supply is plentiful and the margin of profit very narrow. The Chamber hesitates to push a project that might not prove profitable.

Actually farm folks have a stake in much that the city does and the city has an equal stake in rural prosperity. According to the last census (1949) Pettis County farm products sold that year amounted to nearly ten million dollars. That is a pretty big payroll and one that Sedalia citizens want to continue.

Council Reorganizes

The date of 1:30 on Friday, Dec. 6, has been set as the reorganization meeting of the Pettis County Agricultural Extension Council.

'No More Super Teams'

Wilkinson Sees End To Winning Streaks

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Long winning streaks in football are a thing of the past.

No less an authority than Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson feels that way, and he can give you many good reasons.

Last Saturday, Notre Dame's big line and alert backfield laid asunder the Sooners' 47-game winning streak 7-0.

The streak was the longest in college history, and dated back to 1953. The Sooners had another winning streak of 31 games running in the 1948-49 season before Kentucky ended it 13-7 in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day 1951.

"We were lucky to get this far before getting beat," Wilkinson said today. "And I have no doubt in my mind that there'll be no more such winning streaks."

"In fact, there won't be very many teams going through a season undefeated. The leveling process is here and there are no more super teams that can go out 10 Saturdays a season and win."

"Just look at the top 10 teams. Four of them got beat last Saturday. And there aren't many undefeated teams in the nation today. The manpower is getting more equal all around the country. One big reason is better high school football material."

"With more equal material all around, any team will be capable of getting up for the one big game it's after, you're just not going to be able to get any kind of a streak started."

Notre Dame's blanking of the Sooners also ended a national record of 123 games in which Oklahoma has scored. That record goes back to the start of the 1946 season after Oklahoma State blanked OU 48-0 at the end of the 1945 schedule.

Losing a game is an unusual

Sooner Upset Is History For Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Football thrills are not new and far between at Notre Dame but Saturday's stunning 7-0 upset over Oklahoma will find its place in Irish gridiron archives.

Go back to the days when Knute Rockne and Gus Gorais led the Irish to a 35-13 upset victory over Army in 1913 and come down through the era of Frank Leahy and you'll find that unbeaten seasons, winning streaks and big surprises are part of the Notre Dame tradition.

But the triumph over Oklahoma that ended a record-breaking 47-game winning streak was best described by Coach Terry Brennan today when he said:

"It was really something, wasn't it?"

The victory marked a celebration on the Irish campus which was to continue through today. The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the university, proclaimed a school holiday.

"We got in at 9:30 Saturday night," said Brennan, "and there were thousands of people at the airport. Then we came to the school and ran into about 4,000 students. Even as late as 1 o'clock in the morning lights were burning in the dorms and I guess the students were still celebrating."

How did the Irish win the game?

"It's a big pie and we have to cut it up in a lot of pieces," said Brennan. "The team, naturally, deserves the credit but the coaches and scouts had a lot to do with it. We just buckled down, worked hard and found it paid off."

"Another big help was that we had three of their game movies. I can honestly say that it's the first time in two years that we put together a real ball game. I'm not trying to belittle the teams we've played but this time we did the job."

Brennan, after losing to Navy 20-6 and Michigan State 34-6, insisted his team was not as bad as it had appeared.

"The Navy game was the worst we played," said Brennan, "and we made too many mistakes against Michigan State."

Brennan also had nothing but praise for Oklahoma.

"They played a fine game and took the loss graciously," he said.

Tigers Place 12th In State Cross Country

The Smith-Cotton cross-country team placed 12th out of 20 teams in a meet held Friday at Forest Park, St. Louis, beginning at 4:15 p.m.

Smith-Cotton individual runners placed as follows out of 145 boys in the meet: James Kresse, 22nd; Clarence Underhill, 46th; Dick Craig, 78th; Kenneth Keele, 29th; Gary Siron, 82nd; and Joe Reed, 103rd.

Coach Forrest Arnall said he thought the boys did a fine job considering they are all first-year cross-country competitors. They will all be back in 1958 except Keele. Kresse's time of 11:14 for the two-mile course was the best for Smith-Cotton this year. Underhill, a sophomore who weighs an even 100 pounds, had a good time of 11:42 for the course. Both Kresse and Underhill will head the 1958 team, Arnall said.

The teams and their scores were:

1. Beaumont, 46.
2. Kirkwood, 101.
3. Vashon, 117.
4. Washington, Mo., 153.
5. C.B.C., 177.

Turn of Events Helps Solve Sugar Bowl Problem of Opponent

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Sugar Bowl is quite happy with the sudden turn of football fortunes that pointed Rice toward the Cotton Bowl.

Victories over Texas Christian and Baylor would assure Rice a tie for the Southwest Conference title and a bid to the Cotton Bowl, leaving the once-beaten Texas Aggies free to accept a bid to the Sugar Bowl.

The Sugar Bowl, unofficially wedded to the Southeastern Conference, had faced the problem of finding an opponent for its SEC representative.

Still Four Places Undecided In Big 8 Conference Race

By SKIPPER PATRICK THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Big Eight Conference football race, already won by Oklahoma, comes to an end this week with four positions in the final standings still in question.

The Sooners, deflated 7-0 by Notre Dame Saturday in a game that ended their fabulous victory streak at 47 successes, are almost certain to wind up their 1957 conference record at six victories and no losses at the expense of last place Nebraska at Lincoln.

Missouri and Kansas will meet at Lawrence for second place in the standings. Each has won three and lost two in the league.

Iowa State and Colorado, each 2-3, will meet for fourth place at Boulder, with Colorado a heavy favorite. The loser will drop into a fifth place tie with Kansas State, which is through in the conference with two victories and four losses.

Kansas State completes its season against Michigan State at Lansing Saturday.

Oklahoma, with 10 straight conference championships to its credit, wasn't the only Big Eight member upset Saturday. The form chart ran true only at Lincoln, where Colorado beat Nebraska 27-0, and at Ames, where Iowa State hammered South Dakota, 33-0.

Missouri, a two-touchdown favorite, was beaten by Kansas State more decisively than the 23-21 score indicated.

Oklahoma State, new member of the conference but not eligible for the football title until 1960, was upset by the Kansas Jayhawks, 13-7.

The Kansas victory was the third straight since coach Chuck Mather announced he was resigning at the close of the season. It assured the Jayhawks of their best record in Mather's four years at the helm and the best Kansas season since 1952. Kansas now has won four, lost four and tied one.

Sophomore quarterback Duane Morris and lightweight fullback Homer Floyd again hit the telling blows for Kansas. A third stringer most of the season, Morris intercepted three Oklahoma State passes and scored the winning touchdown.

Floyd scored the first Kansas touchdown on a four-yard sprint. He picked up 118 yards rushing.

Kansas State made a mockery of Missouri's heralded defenses. The Wildcats rushed for 410 yards while holding Missouri to 154. Except for the tremendous effort by fullback Hank Kuhlmann, Missouri would have taken a lopsided whipping. A field goal from the 13 yard line by Ben Grosse provided the winning points although K-State had to come from behind on a 52-yard scoring drive late in the game to get the job done.

Five College Teams Leave Undefeated Ranks Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five college football teams fell from the perfect record class over the weekend, chopping the unbeaten, untied list to 18 including just two major schools.

Among the major ranks only Auburn and Arizona State of Tempe remain, each with eight victories.

Pittsburg (Kan.) State Teachers heads the list of unbeaten with 10 victories this season, scoring 320 points against opponents' 53. The Gorillas ended their season Saturday with a 20-7 victory over Northeastern Oklahoma.

Lincoln (Mo.) is among the eight game winners with 246 points against opponents' 75.

Has 8 to 0 Record

Upsets May Make Auburn National Football Champs

By ED CORRIGAN THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Out of the carnage that struck down Oklahoma and Texas A&M, Auburn—a team that never before had dared dream of such things—today emerged as the possible national champion of college football.

With an 8-0 record, and 12 straight victories over the past two years, Shug Jordan's Plainsmen remain one of the two major unbeaten-untied teams in the country. Arizona State at Tempe is the other.

Auburn, ineligible for a bowl as-ignment because it is in bad with the NCAA, still has two games to play against Florida State and Alabama, but neither of these should present any undue difficulty.

This Auburn team is strictly a defensive outfit, and four of its victories have come by the margin of one touchdown, including Saturday's 6-0 squeaker over Georgia. The touchdown came on the only winning pass thrown by the club all season.

Both Oklahoma and Texas A&M bit the dust last week. The Sooners' 7-0 setback at the hands of Notre Dame, of course, was the shocker of the year—the last four years, in fact. The Irish, soundly trounced the two previous weeks, snapped Oklahoma's 47-game winning streak and also shut the Sooners out for the first time in 123 games.

Texas A&M was sidetracked by Rice, 7-6, and thus had its hopes of wrapping up the Southwest Conference championship for the second straight year toppled, at least temporarily.

Rice and Texas now are in the running, but the Aggies, who couldn't act as Cotton Bowl hosts last Jan. 1 because they were on NCAA probation, still are the favorites. They play Texas in the finals for both teams Thanksgiving Day.

Most of the major bowl positions are settled now. Here is how they stand:

Rose—Ohio State vs. Oregon.

Orange—Oklahoma vs. Duke.

Sugar—Mississippi vs. the second place team in the Southwest Conference.

Cotton—Texas A&M favored vs. Navy, if Middles beat Army Nov. 30.

Ohio State, Oregon and Duke all cemented their spots last Saturday.

Duke must go through the formalities of being voted into the Orange Bowl by the Atlantic Coast Conference bigwigs.

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago Cardinals were idle, their game having been put back to Dec. 22.

Cleveland came off a 10-point deficit with four minutes left to tie the pesky Redskins. The puncheon Eagles outplayed the Giants on the attack, but New York's defense turned back four Philly threats, one that reached to within six inches of the goal line.

Syracuse was unbeaten in 10 straight regular football games until it bowed to Penn State last Oct. 26.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tennessee Ernie Ford and his wife lost $6,000 in jewelry and furs to burglars over the weekend, but they figure it could have been worse. In reporting to police that his house had been thoroughly ransacked while he vacationed in Palm Springs, the TV singing star observed: "They were looking for jewelry and stuff like that, but they didn't get much because we was a-wearin' most of our purties."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the seventh time in recent years, a car smashed into Jim Donnelly's house yesterday.

"This is getting monotonous," grumbled Donnelly as he eyed a cracked foundation. His home is on Hattie Street. Cars hitting a traffic island on upper Market Street slant into it. Robert Carl Hagen, 29, driver of a sports car which crashed through a six-foot-high board fence and into the house, was booked on suspicion of drunk driving.

Lakeside Extension Club

Mrs. Garansson Is Speaker At Public Affairs Luncheon

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson of Sedalia was the guest speaker at the Public Affairs Luncheon of the Lakeside Extension Club held Thursday noon, at which other extension clubs of Benton County were guests.

Taking for her subject, "Your Role in Creating Better Public Relations" stated that good public relations is nothing new, basically it is just being liked. The only new thing about public relations is an awareness of its importance and certain tools and techniques which have been developed to make it easier for an organization to recognize that a basic philosophy is far more important than actual techniques.

She told the group that if a club will take on a project that makes a genuine contribution to the community, without looking for angles the community will support it. First, help your community to understand what you are doing as a club and a worthy citizen; second, win public friendship; third, build confidence; fourth, explain the role your club plays in the social and economic development of individuals and the community.

Keep in mind, she said, that your community is composed of many different publics, some are business and religious groups, students, teachers, men's clubs and women's club. It is usually easier to concentrate on a project for one of these publics than for the entire community.

Mrs. Garansson stressed the fact that publicity is a fundamental part of good public relations and is the part that tells people what your club is doing through the press. But the biggest part of your program, she said is the heart of your activities, entering community campaigns as a unit.

Appoint a good committee, she said, give it responsibility for suggesting which campaigns your club will enter as a team; give the opportunity to present at a meeting its ideas as how and why your club should operate as a unit; ask the club to vote its agreement with the suggestions and when approval has been reached let club members know what is expected of them; give the committee the responsibility of carrying through the program; devote a part of your meeting to a discussion and accounting of club participation in community projects and give press releases on the work done as a unit.

Mrs. Garansson suggested a number of things that clubs could sponsor, such as beautification of communities, Christmas decorations, drives for worthy causes, Education-Business Day, interest in government and voting, forums on subjects of civic interest and many other things.

The speaker stressed particularly the observance of "Know Your America Week" which is the week of Nov. 25. This is an outstanding contribution you can make to your community and your nation, she told the group and went on to tell of the observance last year and the plans for it this year in Sedalia.

It was Mrs. Garansson who inspired the observance of "Know Your America Week" in Sedalia. It was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of which she is second vice-president, and he was appointed chairman from that organization. After she enlisted the help of other organizations to plan for the observance last year she was elected general chairman and is again general chairman this year.

In closing Mrs. Garansson pointed out that your community owes you nothing. If accounts were balanced at this date you would be the debtor, because your community has provided the best friends of your life. You can become a part of your community only by giving generously of yourself.

Mrs. Nellie Monegan Bradley, chairman, who is a former Sedalian and a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club until she moved away.

Couple Observe 77th Wedding Day in Hospital

DODGEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Two merry old people, who can't recall a serious quarrel, yesterday celebrated the anniversary of their wedding on a rainy day in England 77 years ago.

John Sleeman, 97, and his wife, 96, were married Nov. 17, 1880, in Cornwall, where it then was the custom for a bridegroom to give the bride's parents a present of money.

Sleeman recalled giving his wife's family $50.

He grinned and said, "she was worth it and a lot more."

Sleeman said he and his wife "never had a good fight."

He explained that, whenever a disagreement grew warm, "I just put on my hat and went out."

Dr. H. H. Morton, Dodgeville, the Sleeman's physician since 1913, attributed their long life together to good humor, saying, "They're always cheerful and can always laugh."

The couple came to the United States in 1911 and lived in Cornish settlements in southwestern Wisconsin. Sleeman farmed and worked in the lead mines.

Sleeman, who is confined to a wheel chair, and his wife have lived for about a year in St. Joseph's Hospital here.

The couple was joined yesterday by four of their seven children and about 60 other relatives and neighbors for the celebration in the hospital.

Of some 180 species of holly growing in various parts of the world, only about 12 are found in the United States.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "dust devil" — a small, localized whirl of wind caused by excessive and uneven heating of air near the ground — carried a 90-pound boat over a backyard fence here and dropped it 80 feet away.

Had he been on the scene, the boat owner might have taken a scientific interest in the scene. He's Bob Burwell, an observer at the Columbus Weather Bureau.

Regional Library Notes

New Fall Fiction Includes Books of Well Known Writers

New fall fiction at the Boone Regional Library includes a number of books by well-known authors.

Frank Yerby's new book, "Fair-oaks," is the story of Guy Falks, Southern aristocrat who, without knowing it, lived a lie so gloriously that in the end he made it come true. It is the story of the vast Southern plantation, Fair-oaks, of the four generations of angry men and loyal women who were willing to make any sacrifice for its possession, and of slavery and the trade in human lives. This is Yerby's longest and most ambitious novel since "The Foxes of Harrow" and promises to be much in demand.

"Scent of Cloves," Norah Loft's new novel is set in the turbulent background of the seventeenth century Dutch East Indies. It is the haunting, exciting tale of Julia Ashley who traveled halfway around the world to marry a man she had never seen.

Another book, which promises to be a much talked-of novel is Ayn Rand's "Atlas Shrugged." A very long book, it offers a tale of big business tycoons and of a strong-minded female railroad vice president. As in her previous work, best-selling "The Fountainhead," many of its pages are filled with Miss Rand's philosophy, a rather critical sort, it seems.

Frank G. Slaughter's new book is the story of Andrea Bianco, a Venetian mapmaker whose brilliant navigation long before Columbus added much to the fame of Portugal's Prince Henry the Navigator. Appropriately, it is titled "The Mapmaker." It is a story of intrigue, romance, and daring interspersed with much historical fact.
